Marion and Crittenden County.

Marion is one Gateway and Crittenden County the location of wonderfully high deposits of lead, zinc, silver, copper, and fluorspar. These diverse formations, under deep, permanent cover, are the richest in the world, and also invaluable, with development, to become the greatest mining field in the world for the future.

Mineral wealth at the St. Louis Exposition, Kentucky Fluor Spar Co. Silver, Marston, Penn. Second Prize on zinc ore. Both carbonates and blends. Columbia Mining Co. Bronze Medal Third Prize on zinc blende ore.

Known about the world with fine flowing streams and springs, and lead and copper is adapted to fruit culture and stock raising. Climate and soil in America for roads and pasture brick.

Very fine quality of glass sand. Cheap, plentiful, easily mined, within half a mile of railroad. Abundant supply of coal within ten miles of plant.

Marion's school facilities exceed any in Warren Township.

Marion has all the advantages of a thriving County Seat, as well as being the center of one of the best producing mining districts.

Marion is situated on a high, well draining (a healthful) site, and has macadamized streets and paved sidewalks, excellent electric lighting and telephone systems.

Marion has a beautiful recreation within the past few years.

Marion has a two thriving banks and two splendid newspapers, issued weekly.

Marion has, above all, a refined, thrifty citizenship, and a hearty welcome ready for desirable new citizens and investors.

Kittenden County has one railroad, passing through Marion, and is bounded by over six hundred miles of navigable waterway.

Marion has a Commercial Club of over fifty charter members, earnestly working for the prosperity of the city and district.

Congress will adjourn for the holidays on or about Dec. 21.

Marion and Crittenden county are reaching out. As an instance read the editorial from the Courier-Journal, published today in our mining columns.

The liberal patronage of our business men again forces the Press to issue four extra pages to accommodate them. This is the way to build up their business, and to assist in building up the town at the same time.

The Ohio river is frozen over solid at Point Pleasant, West Va. This is the earliest period at which the river was ever known to have been frozen over at that point. Dangerous ice gorges have formed between Wheeling and Pittsburgh, which are being anxiously watched by river men.

It would seem that some women are smarter than some men. By means of a worthless note for $1,000,000, with the magic name of Andrew Carnegie signed to it, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick borrowed all the money in an Oberlin, Ohio, bank, buncoed a multi-millionaire of Pittsburgh, Pa., out of $800,000, and made a number of large hauls from Cleveland, O., and New York City parties. She is now behind the bars, but eminent lawyers are doubtful as to whether she can be successfully prosecuted provided she only offered the note as collateral.

On Monday last a serious riot, headed by prominent Socialists, occurred in the city of St. Petersburg, Russia, and it was of such large dimensions as to take the entire police force and a large number of soldiers to quell it. The statement is made on seemingly good authority, that the whole of Russia is a smothering volcano of revolt, ready at any moment to burst forth. The cry of the rioters was "Down with the War! Down with Autocracy!" This riot at the Russian capital, taken in connection with the recent bloody riots in Warsaw, will doubtless admonish the Emperor that it would be a good idea to keep a large supply of soldiers at home.

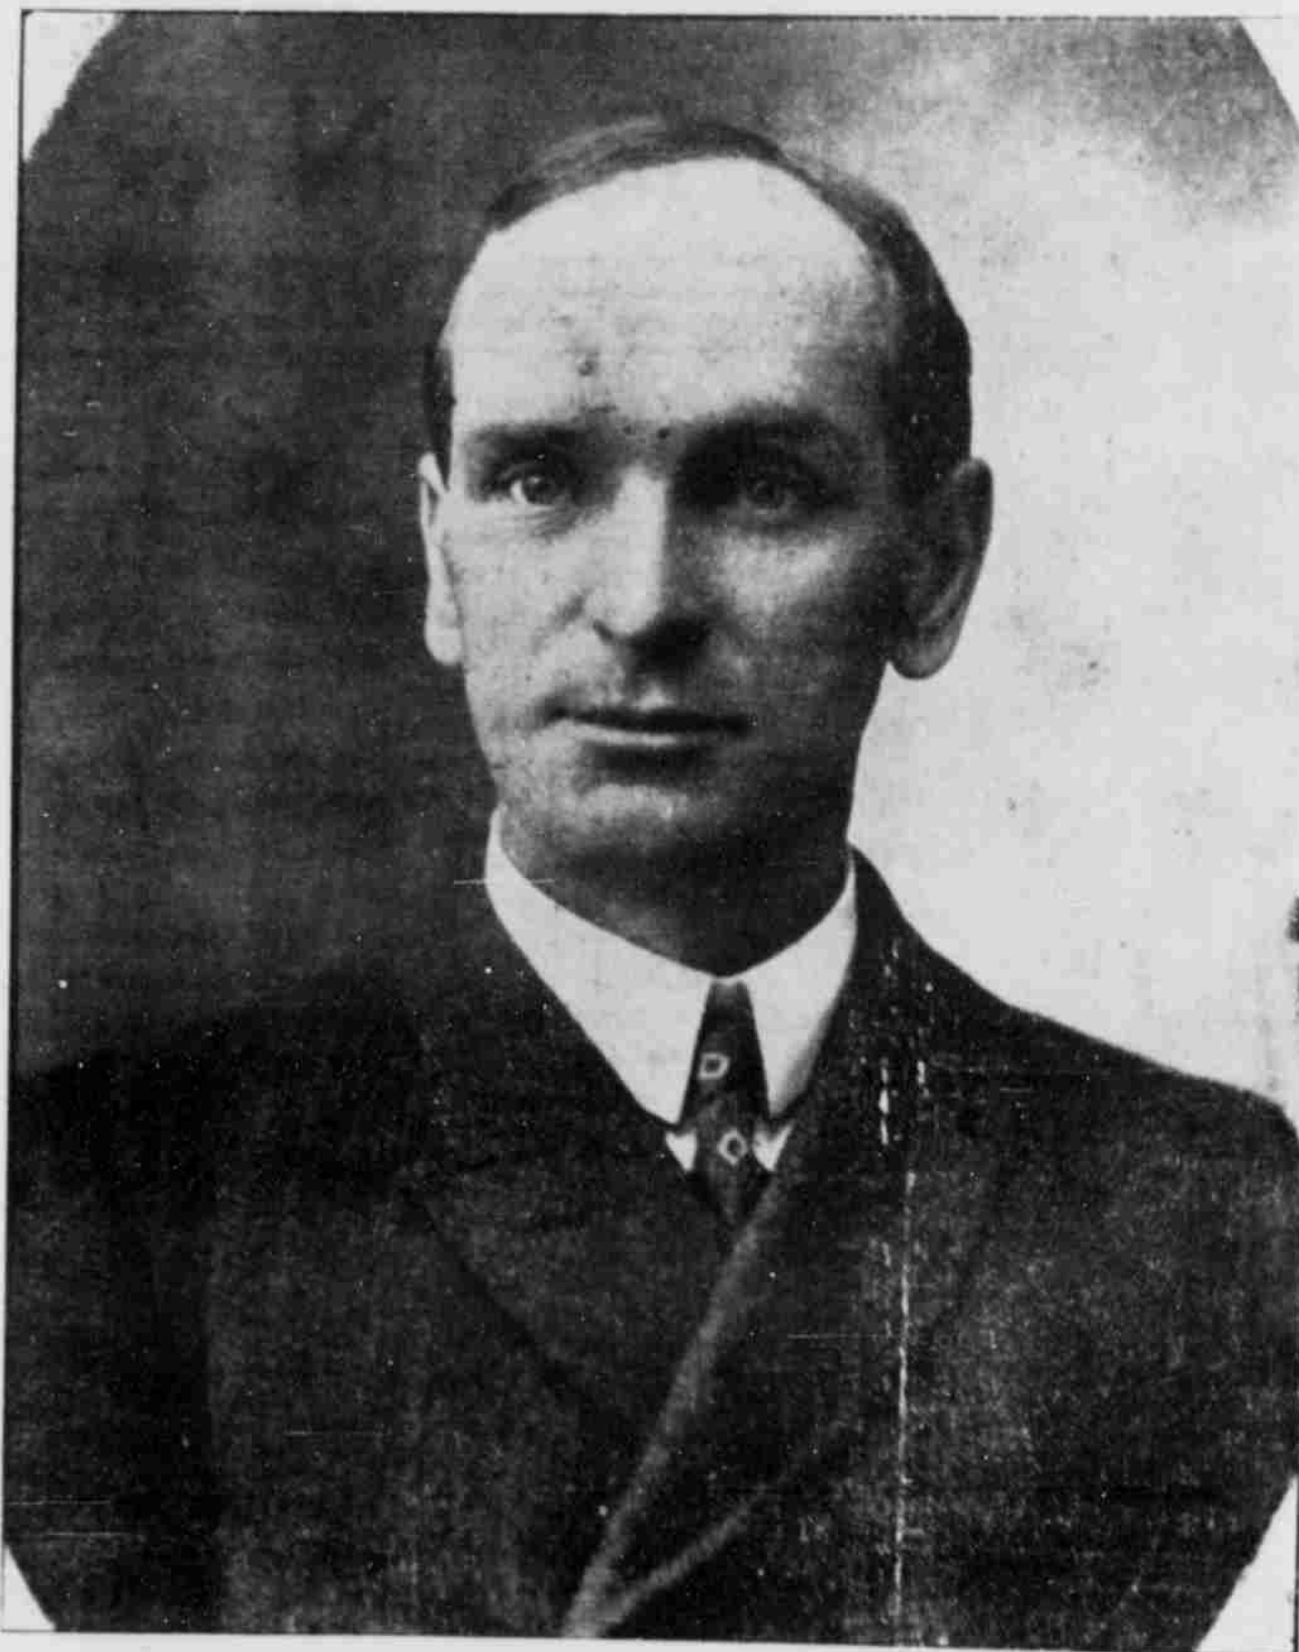

The Commodore Mining Company, the youngest in the district, is sustaining its status of being the most vigorous. We understand they have struck the LaRue vein in their new shaft at a depth of ten or twelve feet. They have also cleared ground for a considerable space around their new shaft and have erected a commodious shaft house. The very atmosphere around their works has a "business air," proportionate with the large and valuable holdings of this company. We also understand Mr. Whitehouse has traced out the Dike vein, another of the numerous valuable leads crossing this property, and that it will also be opened up soon either at its intersection with the famous LaRue lead or at one of the numerous outcroppings where this vein shows on the surface.

THOMAS H. COCHRAN

Crittenden's Favorite, the Man Who Will be Named to Represent Us in the Next Kentucky House of Representatives.

From all sources the inquiry has been coming, "Whom do you want for the next Representative?" "Who is Crittenden's candidate?" "What kind of a man are you going to run up there?" is what Livingston county wants to know. The Press has canvassed the situation and finds the universal choice of the people is the gentlemen whom we represent above, Thomas H. Cochran. He is ours by adoption only, and is a son of Livingston by birth, having been born near Smithland about 35 years ago, but has lived here more than half his life. Crittenden county will rally to him to the man, and Livingston county will make the old Gibraltar district proud of her by the majority she will roll up for him.

A christian gentleman a fine and fair business man, an honorable competitor in business or politics he will win laurels in Kentucky's next lower house, and the people want him there to guard their interests. Is there a man either county who will say nay?

A NEW CORPORATION

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 10. The Commodore Mining company, with $200,000 capital stock, organized to develop mines in Criderden county, filed articles of incorporation in the department of the Secretary of State today. Walter Miller and John Sheas of Louisville are among the incorporators.

ENCOURAGING PROSPECTS

J. N. Riley, our bustling geologist who developed the Flume mine in Crittenden county, which has been erected a $100,000 dollar mining plant, which has become one of the leading lead and fluor spar mines in the State, is interested in developing some lithographic stone in Lyon county. Mr. Riley has already found what will prove to be one of the finest lithographic stone mines in the country, and when he true the mine will pay him some profits. A number of samples have been sent out and are so interested those who receive them that a number of lithographic experts are expected to visit Lyon county in a few days to examine prospects. Lyon county may yet rival Crittenden county with such men as J. N. Riley. "boom" her—Lyon Co. Times.

A Hopkinsville Man Fined.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 15.—L. Griffin was tried in the afternoon charged with failing and refusing to comply with the order of the Board of Health notifying him to remove his child, two and one half years old, to the eruptive hospital. The child has smallpox. Numerous witnesses were introduced on both sides and the case was argued at length by city attorney Halliday for the prosecution and John B. Russell for the defense. The trial was by jury. A verdict was returned at 8 o'clock tonight finding Mr. Griffin guilty and fining him ten dollars, the lowest penalty in the case.

No new cases of smallpox have developed for three days in the county, and the scare has almost subsided. All patients at the hospitals are reported to be doing well, and a majority of cases will be dismissed early next week.
